Activities

Museums

Amsterdam has the highest museum density in the world. Alongside the wealth of majestic Golden Age paintings, you'll find exciting modern art, film and photography museums and some unique typically Dutch museums such as the Houseboat museum.

Canal cruise

At the Conservatorium hotel, we can arrange a lovely private boat tour for you or advise you on the best public boat tours. We can arrange any boat tour over Amsterdams lovely canals on your request.

Amsterdam on foot

Simply walking through Amsterdam is one of the best ways to get to know the city. With the many picturesque bridges to cross and the countless cozy cafés for breaks along the way, exploring Amsterdam by foot offers hours of sightseeing.

Take a bike ride

Still the best way to get around in Amsterdam is by bicycle - just like the locals do. Cycling is fun, efficient and easy, thanks to the flat landscape and multitude of bike paths. Amsterdam has been ranked as the most bicycle-friendly city in the world.

Markets

Amsterdam has a number of lively (neighborhood) markets filled with food, flowers, clothes, vintage, housewares and other bits of kitsch. Visiting one of the many open-air markets is one of the best ways of soaking up some of the local culture.

Shopping

'9 Little Streets'

Best for a scenic, uniquely "Amsterdam style" shopping experience on the canals right in the city center. It's always a good idea to go strolling on the hand-laid brickwork lanes, dotted with designer boutiques, cozy cafés, vintage stores and specialty shops.

Old South

Don't miss Cornelis Schuytstraat and its trendy boutiques and home stores for a special Dutch outfit or gift. For high-brow label-hunting, go to the P.C. Hoofstraat located just around the corner from the Conservatorium hotel.

Utrechtsestraat

Best for trendy shopping in the Eastern Canal Belt. This long canal-crossing street has enough specialty stores and boutiques to keep you browsing for several hours.

The Jordaan Area

Best for discovering hidden treasures. It's fun to spend an afternoon getting lost in the maze of tiny streets in the heart of the bohemian-yuppie Jordaan neighborhood, where you'll stumble upon second-hand stores, artist's studios, small boutiques and galleries.

Spiegelkwartier

Just north of the Rijksmuseum, you'll find beautiful antique shops with art, furniture, Royal Delft, prints, books and more. The many art galleries on the cross-street Kerkstraat are also part of this antique- and art-dense area, known as the 'Spiegelkwartier'.
